

THE 3RD ANNUAL INDIAN STUDIES LECTURE

South Indian Classical Music Workshop and Performance

BY:

SIKKIL GURUCHARAN

Friday, March 9, 2012

TCS Building/
Art Annex

6:00 – 8:00pm

(Reception at 5:30pm)

We will begin with a short lecture demonstration on the components of South Indian classical music, with an emphasis on melody and rhythm. This will be followed by a short concert of about one hour featuring the canonical works of South Indian classical music. Guests will have time to meet with the artist at the conclusion of the program. Gurucharan will be accompanied by a percussionist and a violinist.

Sikkil Gurucharan hails from a legendary family of South Indian musicians. He is one of the most prominent artists in the contemporary world of South Indian classical music. Gurucharan has performed in India, Europe and North America. Praised for his lovely voice and impeccable musical lineage, India's Sangeet Natak Akademi awarded Charan the prestigious Yuva Puraskar award for young achievers in music in 2008. Gurucharan has released and recorded a number of albums, and has also collaborated with musicians across musical styles and genres.
